Steel Mills Still Idle; Ore Dispute Snags Production

By ROWLAND EVANS
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The nation's steel mills were still idle today, despite a strike-end agreement reached at the White House and ratified last night by the union's policy committee.

CIO President Philip Murray and the executives of six major steel producers signed the White House memorandum of agreement which stated unequivocally the strike "will end" upon ratification by the Steelworkers' 175-man policy committee.

Yet the day after that unanimous ratification, striking CIO steelworkers still manned picket lines. Banked blast furnaces which the industry had said would be fired last night were still cool. And the strike, already the longest in the nation's steel history, entered its 55th day.

Ore Dispute Snagged

Neither side, however, expected the impasse to continue long. Circumstances surrounding the Thursday agreement indicated eagerness on both sides to restore production as soon as possible.

But industry officials said they were "amazed and disillusioned" at the unexpected development.

The fly in the ointment was not the critical dispute which set off the steel strike on June 2. It was, rather, a companion strike of 23,000 iron ore workers in Minnesota far from the heart of the nation's biggest industry.

These ore workers, who are members of the Steelworkers' Union, walked off the job a few hours after the steelworkers struck. They demanded the same wage and other concessions asked by the steelworkers together with elimination of wage differentials between themselves and the steelworkers, whose pay rates are considerably higher.

The agreement signed at the White House had two parts: One between the union and the big six; the other between the union and the Oliver Iron Mining division of U. S. Steel.

The union-big six agreement included a 16-cent hourly wage boost, effective last March 1, plus slightly more than five cents additional in fringe benefits, as well as a modified form of union shop giving new employees the right to withdraw from the union and old employees who are not members the right to stay out.

The Union-Oliver pact included nearly all the terms of the basic agreement, plus a separate condition committing the industry to eliminate "in part" the wage differential "as of the end of the strike" and the balance next July 1.

The latter pact included nearly all the terms in the basic steel agreement, plus a separate condition which committed the industry to eliminate "in part" the wage differential "as of the end of the strike" and the balance next July 1.

The industry and the union late last night were in total disagreement over a snag in the ore situation.

The union said ore companies which did not sign the White House memorandum of agreement were holding out for terms unacceptable to the union.

The mining companies said the union was insisting on working out fairly complete contract language before sending out back-to-work notices, not only in the ore mines, but in the steel mills too.

Federal officials said actual contract writing with the various companies was not intended to hold up the strike's end.

Michigan Goes For Stevenson

By JACK I. GREEN

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Gov. G. Mennen Williams hailed the Michigan delegation aboard the Stevenson bandwagon just as it began to roll last night.

Then he went to work to swing the vice-presidential nomination to the Tennessee senator, Estes Kefauver.

Michigan tried to spark a first ballot boom for Kefauver but it didn't make enough bang. By the time the third ballot came around Williams was ready to cash the blank check given him early yesterday by his delegation.

For Kefauver Williams said the best ticket Democrats could write would be "Kefauver and Kefauver."

He plugged to get party chiefs to accept the Tennessee senator. The delegation voted in caucus to toss its 40 votes to Kefauver after the first ballot—which went to Williams—then let Williams switch the votes when he thought the time had come.

State chairman Neil Staebler said the delegation felt Kefauver should be allowed to show his strength in the face of widespread predictions that it was all Stevenson.

Williams told reporters after the nomination "We felt the nomination of a liberal like Stevenson should be accomplished with the help of the liberal group," in which Michigan counted itself.

Tedious Roll Calls

"It probably would have come any way," Williams conceded, "but we felt it better for it to come with liberals contributing to the unity of the party."

Much of the early Kefauver support from Michigan resulted from the backing Kefauver gave northern Democrats in their fight against seating southern delegations which refused to take the loyalty oath drafted by Sen. Blair Moody.

Delegates voiced suspicion that Stevenson's managers had made a deal with the southerners to trade support.

Michigan contributed twice to the tedious roll calls of delegations—once for Kefauver and once for Stevenson. Neither made any difference.

France Asks Funds To Produce Arms

WASHINGTON — (AP) — France has asked the United States for 625 million dollars to step up arms production and meet its military goals under the North Atlantic Treaty defense plan.

This is more than half the $1,282,000,000 Congress voted for defense support aid for all of Europe.

American officials reportedly have promised the French $186 million dollars for the 12 months which began July 1, and see little chance of meeting the full French request without reducing the arms production program planned in the United States.

Sault Bank Plans Pickford Branch

LANSING — (AP) — The State Banking Commission today announced it has approved plans of the Sault Savings Bank, Sault Ste. Marie, to establish a branch in Pickford.

The new bank is expected to be in operation Aug. 4.

"This will bring to this thriving community the services and benefit of the experience of an institution with a long and favorable record in the banking field," said state banking commissioner Maurice C. Eveland.

Reds Accused Of Hypocrisy

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR
MUNSAN, Korea — (AP) — Allied negotiators today accused the Communists of "utter hypocrisy" and walked out of the Korean truce talks for a week.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., senior United Nations delegate, told the protesting Reds he would return August 3.

"If you have anything worth saying (before Aug. 3) you can say it to our staff officers," Harrison declared.

The walkout ended the first open session at Panmunjom in three weeks. Eighteen off-the-record meetings since July 4 failed to break the deadlock over how to exchange prisoners of war—key obstacle to an armistice.

In Tokyo, Gen. Mark Clark, supreme Allied Commander, said the closed sessions failed to produce results because the Communists "refused to recognize the inescapable fact that a large percentage of Communist prisoners refused flatly to go back to their former masters."

Before leaving the tent, Harrison agreed to a Red request for daily staff officer meetings "on the detailed wording of the draft armistice agreement."

Staff officers then met for 39 minutes and will meet again Sunday.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il, the chief Communist negotiator, harangued the Allies for insisting that no prisoner be repatriated against his will.

"In these meetings," Harrison said, "we have been restrained in our statements and have tried to be accurately faithful. Your statements on the other hand, have demonstrated utter hypocrisy. You have said we want to retain your personnel. What we know, what the world knows as a fact is that those prisoners are afraid to be returned as slaves to the tender mercies of Communism."

Michigan Tourists Killed In Ontario

SHRIMCOE, Ont. — (AP) — Two Hamtramck, Mich. tourists were killed and a third critically injured last night when their car collided with a truck six miles east of here.

The victims were Walter Sementuk, 30, and a four year old boy, Bordan Marcinew.

Mrs. Ewenia Marcinew, Bordan's mother, suffered critical injuries.

Illinois Chief Executive Wins On Third Ballot

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
CONVENTION HALL, Chicago — (AP) — Adlai Stevenson, who said he prayed to "the merciful Father of us all to let this cup pass from me," received a third ballot presidential nomination early today from the Democratic national convention.

Then, in one of the most unusual acceptance speeches in party history, he summoned the party legions to his side to help "educate and elevate" the American people for their destined leadership of a "world in ferment."

Over and over he said that better men than he were "at hand for this mighty task." YET, he said, "I could not be more proud."

"Honest to Goodness Draft" President Truman introduced the nominee, saying that for the first time in his memory a party candidate had been selected by a "real, honest to goodness draft."

The retiring chief executive had come before the party assembled in convention with a speech of his own—speech of utter contrast in texture and tone to that of the new nominee.

Truman lambasted the Republicans in whistle-stop style, saying they stand for everything "that will hurt the people and help special interests." He brought roars of approval by assailing "that good for nothing Taft-Hartley Act."

More cheers (from northerners at least) greet his charge that the G.O.P. "weasels on civil rights."

For the retiring leader and the new one, Democrats in this convention hall poured out long, noisy tributes, waving aloft the state standards and placards that were the rallying flags of the party ballot just ended.

Kefauver's Birthday Stevenson, a "phantom candidate" who insisted almost to the end that he didn't want it, captured the nomination in a brilliant political power play staged by the men backing him.

It sent other men of stature down to defeat. For Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, the crime-busting senator, it was a galling birthday present. He was 49 today.

Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia lost out, too—victim of what his backers called a "deal."

The choice of the vice-presidential nominee was up to Stevenson.

Long past 2 a. m., the convention adjourned. Fagged delegates were told to come back at 11 a. m. EST to nominate a man for the vice presidential assignment—Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama.

That was to be largely a question of running through routine—at the end of a week of rowdy warring among party factions. The climax was Stevenson's personal victory.

For two ballots he had trailed behind Kefauver. Then there was a 2½ hour recess. The Stevenson

A Study In Contrast, Truman And Stevenson

By RELMAN MORIN

CHICAGO — (AP) — The two men who stood there on the platform early this morning, could have come from different planets, they were so completely unlike.

Harry Truman, the typical man of action, blunt, jut-jawed aggressive breathing fire and confidence.

And Adlai Stevenson, the philosopher, the ponderer, the sensitive man, calmly measuring himself and his capabilities against the task at hand.

They were the complete opposites. Recalling 1948 Convention Inevitably, your mind went back to the last night of the 1948 Democratic convention when Harry Truman strode down the runway in Philadelphia, slammed his notes on the rostrum, and stood there, legs wide apart like the captain of a ship heading into a storm.

He was confident then, too, and with far less reason than he and his party have today.

On that hot July night in 1948, Harry Truman belabored the 80th Congress for what he said it had done and had not done. Congress "had not done its job."

"I'm going to call 'em back and make 'em either do the work or admit to the people that they've let us down."

He was angry, that night, and

Ike Silent On Demo Selection

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

DENVER — (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower deferred comment today on nomination of Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois as the Democratic presidential nominee—and on President Truman's fighting speech blasting the Republicans.

Campaign headquarters of the General, the GOP presidential candidate, indicated he might have something to say later in the day, after the Democratic national convention nominates a Stevenson running mate.

Eisenhower, vacationing about 70 miles west of here in the Colorado Rockies, listened over the radio yesterday to the early balloting in Chicago on selection of a Democratic standard bearer. But there was no immediate word at his headquarters here whether the General sat up for the nomination of Stevenson and for the Truman and Stevenson speeches made early today.

Hard Fight Expected There was no inclination in the Eisenhower camp to look for anything but a difficult campaign against Stevenson.

As the general has done, the Illinois governor promised to wage a fighting campaign.

There was no inclination, either, among Eisenhower associates to discount the role Truman plans to play in the campaign.

"I am going to take off my coat and do everything I can to help you win," the President told widely cheering Democratic delegates at the Chicago convention.

Confers With Nixon Eisenhower headquarters took that to mean another "give-em-hell" campaign against Stevenson against Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, then the GOP presidential nominee.

Eisenhower and his vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, will meet tomorrow to chart campaign strategy for the fight against the Democratic ticket. They will confer at the General's vacation cabin near Fraser, Colo.

The General will end his 10 day vacation at the conference with Nixon, and will return to Denver with the Californian.

Mustering Out Pay Begins On Aug. 15

WASHINGTON — (AP) — First mustering out pay checks for about 500,000 Army veterans of the Korean war period will be mailed from the Army Finance Center, St. Louis, Mo., about Aug. 15.

The Army announced yesterday that qualified veterans who have left the service since June 27, 1950, should apply to the finance center for the bonus payments authorized by Congress, including their separation forms with their applications.

All ranks below major in the Army will receive $100 for less than 60 days service since June 27, 1950; $200 for more than 60 days within the United States, and $300 for more than 60 days including overseas duty.

Schedules of payments for Air Force, Navy and Marine veterans have not been announced.

Truman Lauds Demo Nominee, Pledges Help

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago — (AP) — President Truman told the Democratic convention today it had picked a winner in Adlai Stevenson, its nominee to succeed him in the White House.

"Adlai Stevenson will win in 1952 as we did in 1948," he said.

"And I'm telling you now, I'm going to take off my coat and do everything I can to help."

The President flew here from Washington to present the nominee to the party's faithful, gathered in this big amphitheater hard by the stockyards.

"Winning Formula" He told the Democratic legions the Republicans would not be easy to whip—that they would spend lots of money. But he said the Democrats would win because they had the winning formula—"We give the American people the kind of government they want."

Moreover, Truman said, "I don't think the people of this country are going to turn the safety of the country over to people who are more interested in cutting the budget than they are in stopping Communism."

"Our greatest program," Truman said, "is for world peace. We're determined to avoid World War II."

He said: "We have finally stepped into the leadership of the Almighty God intended for us to step into a general's shoes."

Attacks T-H Act Turning back to domestic issues, he declared: "We will fight for the repeal of that good for nothing Taft-Hartley act."

The chief executive said all the men whose names were placed before the convention for the presidential nomination were unusually fine and able.

He continued: "It was hard to make a choice among these great leaders, but the choice that we have made is one that we can all get behind. We are going out of here an inspired and fighting party, dedicated to the welfare of the people."

"We are bound to win this election."

Truman then detailed what he has many times said before: What this country has done in the events leading up to Korea, and what it has done on a world mutual security program.

Truman came before the convention a little over an hour after it had nominated Stevenson.

"Unlimited Goals" Truman said that with the growth of atomic power the world is on the

Air Force Cuts Orders For B-36

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Air Force has shut off its orders for B-36 heavy bombers. Deliveries under existing orders will run into 1954.

Announcing this yesterday, an Air Force spokesman said the big B-36 with combination jet and piston engines "will be supplanted eventually by other types."

The announcement said the manufacturer of the B-36, Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp., will be given other essential work, including "pre-production work on new prototypes," when B-36 production tapers off at its Fort Worth, Tex., plant.

What planes would be included in the new prototypes was not disclosed.

LANSING, Mich. — (AP) — Keith Burl, 25, mortally wounded by accidental discharge of his own gun, drove himself to the hospital last night—and died.

U. P. Delegates Back Stevenson

At the end of three polls of Michigan's Democratic convention delegates the six delegates from the Upper Peninsula were squarely backing Stevenson, only one of them making a second - guess switch from Kefauver to the Illinois governor.

All of Michigan's 40 votes were eventually swung to the Stevenson side by Gov. G. Mennen Williams on the basis of the unit rule, but some of the delegates stayed with losing candidates to the early morning end.

Here's how the Upper Peninsula delegates voted:

For Stevenson to the end: Louis Mezzano, Wakefield; Donald Cook, Escanaba; Ivan Brown, Iron Mountain; John P. McManis, Negaunee; Leonard McManis, Ironwood; and 29 lower Michigan delegates;

Switched from Kefauver to Stevenson: Lawrence L. Farrell, Escanaba; and 21 other reconsidering voters;

The remainder of the count at the end of the last polling:

For Kefauver to the end: nine delegates.

For Stevenson on final count but not voting earlier: two delegates, Governor Williams and U.S. Sen. Blair Moody; Switched from Kefauver to Barkley: one delegate.

When Williams swung Michigan's 40 votes to Stevenson, delegate Donald Cook of Escanaba, an original Stevenson man, forced a second poll. He asserted the Stevenson men had been forced to stand up and be counted in the afternoon and the Kefauver holdouts should suffer the same fate.

WAVES Celebrate Tenth Year As Service Branch

The WAVES will mark the end of their first ten years in the Navy on July 30.

The more than 9,000 girls in blue on active duty will celebrate their tenth birthday with informal observance at naval activities in the continental United States, in Japan, Hawaii, Norway, Germany, France, Alaska and England where they are serving.

WAVES (Women Appointed for Voluntary Emergency Service) first joined the Navy on July 30, 1942 when Congress authorized the commissioning and enlistment of women in the U. S. Naval Reserve. With the passage of the Women's Armed Services Integration Act in June, 1948, women became an integral part of the Regular Navy on a permanent basis.

During World War II more than 79,000 WAVES were on duty in 900 continental shore activities performing 450 different jobs. More than 4,000 were stationed in Hawaii.

Today 28 of the Navy's 62 enlisted ratings are open to the women who wear the Navy blue. Their duty is limited only by restrictions on serving in aircraft on combat missions, on ships other than hospital ships and transports, and in billets classified as heavy duty.

Today the Navy needs more qualified young women to fill the vacancies which exist. Women who are interested in serving their country in the WAVES may get complete information details on enlistments by writing the Navy recruiting office in Marquette, Mich.

Ship Canal Is Not Justified

The Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army, has issued an unfavorable report on the Au Train-Bay de Noc ship canal connecting Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, proposed in 1949.

The committee on public works in Congress on April 5, 1949, adopted a resolution authorizing the preliminary study, which was made by the Corps of Engineers.

"Based on the information now available the reporting officers find that reasonable anticipated benefits are insufficient to justify the very large cost of an alternate canal between Lake Superior and the Lower Great Lakes or a detailed survey thereof at this time," the engineers reported recently.

Interested parties have the opportunity to present their views to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, Washington, D. C., before Aug. 21, 1952.

The report of an unfavorable preliminary examination of the proposed ship canal is on file with the Board. Further information may be obtained from the Detroit District Office, Corps of Engineers, 100 Cadillac Tower, Detroit. Copies of the report cannot be furnished to inquirers.

The proposed canal would connect Lake Superior and Lake Michigan through the Whitefish River basin. Upper end of the canal would be at Au Train and the south end at the head of Little Bay de Noc.

The elder Buckland was arrested this morning before Justice Henry E. Ranguette on the charge of failure to have his car under control and was given a 30-day probationary sentence. A fine of $15 and a jail sentence of 15 days was suspended by the judge.

Buckland told officers his car was pulled into the ditch after it left the road and ran on to a soft shoulder.

Extensive damage was caused to the car.

Diary Reveals Vanished Ruark

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK — Dear Diary, I thought you might like to reflect the doings of a guy who didn't go to the convention this time, because not going was all so simple.

You must know that Tuesday I lunched with a Roosevelt. This comprises my counterattack against E. D. Jr. This Roosevelt is named George, and he lives in Hawaii when you can pin him down at all. If Hawaii ever gets statehood George may be heard from. He was a loud voice.

Spent a lot of time in front of the television, Dear D. Thought the Giants when they beat the Cardinals Tuesday night looked real tight, and wondered what a man like Stanky thinks about later when he puts himself in to pinch-hit and pops up.

Zoo To Movies

Spent considerable time in the zoo, admiring the animals. They seem so well-behaved, when contrasted to people. The dromedary is moulting, or whatever happens to camels. Must write Humane Society about more turf for the animals to pace on. Is this one world or ain't it the animals shouldn't have enough grass?

Went to the movies, a British thing called, "Outcast of the Islands". Joseph Conrad doesn't write any better for the films than he wrote for the readers, and when Somerset Maugham referred to him as "that ponderous Pole," he was so very, very right.

Had lunch with a lady who says in her first reincarnation she wants to be Toots Shors dog. She figures that even in this economy a dog owned by Toots would not go hungry. Seemed logical at the time.

Turned on the television again and saw Betty Furness. I think she will make a very nice vice-president indeed, being so pretty and handy about the kitchen. Or was that Mrs. Roosevelt? It's been so hot here lately I can't tell one poodle cut from another.

Spent Wednesday in meditation. Discovered that I have ten toes and ten fingers. Is this a common occurrence?

Got bill from hotel in Chicago.

300 'Kids' to Attend

"This will be an opportunity for youngsters in safety patrol work to see a real-life radio star, and one who undoubtedly has been heard by most children," said Professor Kauko A. Wahtera, head of the driver training department of Northern Michigan College.

About 300 youngsters from 18 communities in the U. P. are expected to go to Escanaba for the safety program.

Safety demonstrations and skillful driving performances by high school students also will be presented during the "safety recognition day" program.

Am pleased to know I own a hotel, but was unaware at the time that I was buying it.

Listened to some more television. Must make note to have the Democrats rehearse "Happy Days are Here Again," before they attempt to instill confidence in the voters by singing it. The man telling the people to sing loud made more noise than the singers.

Read all the learned comments about the convention. Unable make heads or tails out of most of it, an experience I imagine we have all shared lately. Some talk of another war between the states current, and unable to decide on which side loyalty rests. Ah got hot Suth'n blood but ah lives up No'th.

Contractors! See This Amazing Strait-Line Loader Now!

Now it's an Oliver Wheel Tractor and Strait-Line Loader. But, push a little lever and presto ... it's the most amazing bulldozer or angledozer you've ever seen.

You undoubtedly know the advantages of the Strait-Line Loader ... the loader that digs in back, swings its load overhead, and loads in front. You know that the rear-carried bucket load multiplies traction ... makes steering easy.

But now, you can get a "quick change" bulldozer and angledozer blade for the Strait-Line. Just push the little lever and, quick as a flash, you switch from loading to dozing. Pull the lever ... you're ready for loading. Remember, by carrying the loaded bucket in the rear, you get unparalleled traction that puts real "push" behind the blade. It makes wheel tractor dozing a reality! You can load trucks without dismounting the blade.

Editorials—

More Inflation, No Rejoicing, Is Aftermath Of Steel Strike

THE steel strike is ended and there should be rejoicing the length and breadth of the nation. But instead there is a feeling on the part of the individual citizen that President Truman's demanded settlement is too little and too late.

For 53 long days—days that saw the mounting toll of idleness, unemployment, loss of vitally needed production to pursue the war in Korea—the steel strike dragged on.

When the strike ended there was no clear cut victory for anyone concerned—the union, the industry, or the government.

And for the national economy and the people as a whole there was only loss and added fuel for the fires of ruinous inflation. The steel workers will get more pay,

We Face Serious Teaching Problems

TO those well aware of the national shortage of public schools, a recent report of the National Education Association will come as doubly unpleasant news. The report shows that colleges and universities are turning out this year only 32,443 elementary school teachers to meet a demand for at least 160,000.

And that's not all. Of the 160,000 total, 70,000—nearly half—are needed to replace teachers so "woefully under-trained" that they should not be promoted beyond their present positions.

Thus, it becomes all too clear not only that we don't have enough elementary school teachers, but that a surprisingly large number of what we do have are of such poor quality they should be replaced.

A further reflection on teaching quality is seen in the extent to which qualifications of elementary school teachers vary in different parts of the country. For instance, in at least one state 98 per cent of all elementary school teachers hold college degrees. But in at least one other state the percentage plunges to nine.

One valid and apparent reason for the situation as a whole is that the number of children under 12 is increasing so fast. In the 11 years ending in 1951, the total number of children under 12 increased almost 10 million. And where the total elementary school population was 20 million in 1946, it will be 30 million in 1958.

Also, the labor market is tight and many people who otherwise might go into teaching find the lure of better-paying jobs elsewhere irresistible.

But back of the whole thing has been the public attitude towards elementary school education. We just haven't made teaching a well enough paying job to attract the best people into it. To become a really fine grade school teacher requires a selflessness and devotion to an ideal that can hardly survive the economic hazards attendant on that kind of a job.

And if we won't pay what the job calls for we can't blame anyone but ourselves if what we get for our money isn't always what we would like.

What seems to be called for here is a cold dollars-and-cents appraisal of what kind of education we want our children to have and how much we are willing to pay for it. Put that way, it's an unusual parent who won't decide to dig down a little deeper to provide good teachers in sufficient numbers to shape the futures of the country's children in their most impressionable years.

UNCLE EF

Gideon: Greatness In Quality

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
There are two kinds of largeness or greatness: greatness in quantity, and greatness in quality.

In a military way governments and generals have depended chiefly upon numbers. They have considered their strength in the size of their armies, or in the number of troops that they could put in the field.

Napoleon's ideal woman was the one with the most sons. He wanted men for his armies, and despite his great generalship and strategy he was a worshipper of force. Conquerors and dictators have changed the face of history by the sheer hordes of violent men whom they have poured over vast regions, as in the days of Genghis Khan and Attila.

History is also rife with the story of how great armies have been overthrown and put to rout by much smaller forces of courageous, resolute men.

Of the latter, the Biblical and classic example is Gideon. He stands as the conspicuous example of belief in strength and greatness as consisting in quality.

That a general should reduce, instead of increase, his army against apparently overwhelming odds, would seem to be the height of folly. Yet that is exactly what Gideon did.

Gideon's strategy and devices were relatively simple. He rejected the men who, stooping down, took a long time to drink, choosing the three hundred, who quickly the industry will receive more for steel, prices will go up, taxes will go up. In the making is another treacherous circle in the spiral of inflation.

The Wage Stabilization Board, aided and encouraged by President Truman, challenged the steel industry to meet union wage demands without increasing the cost of steel. Then the President seized the steel industry and the U. S. Supreme Court ruled his action unconstitutional.

Returned to its owners, the steel industry continued idle while Congress and Senate "requested" President Truman to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act. The President said he did not think the union would comply with the law of the land—so he waited.

While he and the industry and the union waited the nation's economy withered for lack of steel. Although there are only 650,000 basic steel workers, several million wage earners were laid off because of the steel shortage.

While unemployed they received compensation as established under law, with the employer paying the bill. Thus business and industry not involved in the steel dispute was twice penalized—by the closing due to steel shortage and the necessity to pay unemployment compensation to idle employees.

Nationally the situation became critical. President Truman, abandoning his high-handed attacks on "the selfish interests," appealed to management to meet with labor.

Recriminations and oratory went out the window. This was economics, not politics. Union and management discussed their differences. The steelworkers will receive a pay hike, the steel industry a price increase. The strike was settled, said the President.

But the inflationary forces of higher wages, higher prices, higher taxes, mounting national debt, are not settled—rather they are further unsettled by the agreement.

The steel industry received more than the government wanted it to have, the union received more than the industry wanted to pay, and the steelworkers will get about 21 cents an hour more in wages, including fringe benefits.

There was no victory for anyone except those who believe in the death of the American capitalistic system.

Collazo Clemency Is Undeserved

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has shown a deep sense of mercy in commuting the death sentence of Oscar Collazo, the Puerto Rican who attempted to assassinate the President at Blair House two years ago.

However, the commutation may be a disservice to future Presidents who may be the target of assassins. The clemency shown to Collazo by President Truman conceivably could be the encouragement that brings forth an attack upon the life of one of Mr. Truman's successors.

Collazo was scheduled to die in the electric chair in Washington Aug. 1. President Truman commuted the sentence from the death penalty to life imprisonment. Whether the commutation had any political significance in view of the fact that it coincided with the legalization of Puerto Rico's new constitution of self government has not been indicated.

The federal government cannot afford to be lenient with those who are traitors against the government or those who are political assassins. The latter are as much a threat to the nation as spies and, of course, they should be so treated.

Collazo did not deserve clemency.

Questions and Answers

Q—Does a television set produce heat?
A—Each set uses from two to three hundred watts of electric power, so it generates a good deal of heat.

Q—Why are the representatives sent by the Vatican to foreign countries given the title "nuncio"?
A—The word is Latin and means messenger. A nuncio is the permanent official representative of the Pope at a foreign court or seat of government.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON
CHICAGO—There were some tense moments during the Democrats' battles over the loyalty oath and the seating of the Southern delegates.

Bitterest of all was South Carolina's Governor Jimmie Byrnes who at times trembled with rage. More moderate leaders among the southern delegates maneuvered to keep him off the rostrum. Almost equally bitter was Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia.

Instead, the more moderate Southern leaders were carefully picked as spokesmen Senators John Stennis of Mississippi, Spessard Holland of Florida and Olin Johnston of South Carolina. They knew that if the South really did bolt the convention, Southern senators would lose their prize positions as chairmen of the key committees of Congress—places which have given the South tremendous power in writing legislation, and blocking it. Almost every key committee in both Houses of Congress today is headed by a Southern Democrat.

Most paradoxical development of the entire loyalty-oath fight was the fact that Sen. Walter George of Georgia turned out to be the author of one part of the oath to which the South objected.

George said he would have no objection to some such phraseology as "Every American wants to subscribe to the principle of majority rule," and second, that "Every delegate subscribing to this pledge agrees to vote for the nominee of this convention."

Young Franklin Roosevelt, when he read the latter pledge to vote for the nominee of the convention remarked: "I don't think we can tell every delegate who they should vote for."

However, this part of the oath, having been proposed by a distinguished leader of the South, was left in.

When Gov. Allan Shivers of Texas saw it, however, he objected:

"I can take the oath," he said, "if you omit this section"—referring to the second part of Senator George's proposal.

Its omission was immediately agreed to. During the private discussions over seating of the Southern delegates, Sen. Earle Clements was the roughest of all Southerners. Sore over Vice President Barkley's retirement from the race, he used caustic, bitter language toward young Roosevelt and others.

"At least my family for generations has voted the Democratic ticket," he said, referring to Elliott Roosevelt's deviation to the GOP.

Other committee members recalled that no one in years had done so much for the party as the man who happened to be Elliott's father.

Smogmakers At Work: They Try To Clear Up The Polluted Air

By MICHAEL KEARNEY
NEA Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND (NEA)—Long the fodder for comedians' jokes, smog is being taken more and more seriously by those who put the smoke into the fog.

Industry's one-time "public-b damned" attitude is out the window.

Authorities estimate that more than $100 million a year is now being spent by industry and government on equipment to control air pollution.

As staggering as the amount spent on control may be, projected estimates of damages from air pollution are about 10 times greater.

Direct economic loss—damage to crops, farm animals, and buildings, plus clean-up bills—may soon soar to $1,050,000,000 a year.

AERODYNE traps impurities of smoke in slotted cones.

Stephen Vajda, scientist for Pittsburgh's Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., gave one answer. He told of an ultra-sonic siren which does much in eliminating one of the many air pollution hazards.

The device emits sound waves beyond the range of human hearing, which shriek through dust chambers at steel mill open hearth installations and bind the particles into larger pieces for

Egged on by an aroused public, by newspapers' anti-smoke campaigns and by a desire to be good neighbors, most of industry is participating wholeheartedly in the efforts of the Air Pollution and Smoke Prevention Association of America.

Its first meeting, at Chicago in 1907, saw only 13 in attendance. Public interest was low and industrial representatives stayed away in droves. People regarded smoggy cities as the price we must pay for our tremendous industrial expansion.

In October, 1948, came the tragedy at Donora, Pa. Five days of all-enveloping smog closed in on the steel town, situated in a valley on the Monongahela River. When it finally lifted there were 20 dead and nearly 6000 others—43 per cent of the population—had been made ill. Donora was the worst air pollution disaster in the United States.

With Donora and potential Donoras lending impetus, interest in smoke control increased. For the 45th convention in Cleveland this year, some 600 engineers were on hand—half from industry and half from government. The turnout was the largest in the association's history.

The uppermost question at these meetings is: What can be done to control this byproduct of production that chokes off life and blights property?

Stephen Vajda, scientist for Pittsburgh's Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., gave one answer. He told of an ultra-sonic siren which does much in eliminating one of the many air pollution hazards.

The device emits sound waves beyond the range of human hearing, which shriek through dust chambers at steel mill open hearth installations and bind the particles into larger pieces for easy collection and disposal. Vajda reports that certain fumes already have been controlled by this unique method.

Another warrior in the battle for cleaner air is the Aerodyne, which utilizes conical shaped gummicks with slotted sides. Gases pass through the larger ends of the cones and sharp changes of direction taken by the gases through thousands of slots prevent particles of impurities from reaching the outside. They pass through the small ends of the cones and into collecting traps.

At its Hell Gate plant in New York City Consolidated Edison Co. traps 50 tons of impurities a day. When the job of installing Aerodynes at Ford's River Rouge, Mich., plant is completed, about 500 tons of contaminants are expected to be caught a day.

Dielectric program is rapidly taking railroads out of the running as major air pollution offenders.

Aiding in the onslaught against air pollution are after-burners equipped with electric eyes. The burner, located atop a chimney, consumes volatile substances which otherwise would be discharged into the atmosphere. The delicate electric eye detects the impurities and activates the burner.

Many other devices, including various types of washers, some of which wet impurities so they can be collected later in sludge form, are helping in the purer air campaign.

But, as APSPAA warns, it will take long, continuous effort by the industrialist, municipal air control official, and the housewife to conquer air pollution and jet the sun back into our industrial cities.

SMOKE from factories makes a billion dollar bill.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN
PROJECTS THAT FAIL — The Upper Peninsula of Michigan has through long years had two projects nursed in the hopes of its people. Both appear little if any closer to realization than they did fifty years ago.

First dream was that of connecting by waterway across the Upper Peninsula the two topmost Great Lakes—Superior and Michigan.

In the boom days founded by the fabulous richness of the lumbering era there were men who dreamed of some day digging and building a waterway leading from the Au Train on Lake Superior to the head of Little Bay de Noc on Lake Michigan.

One of the dreamers was John Harvey, who was also a practical man. Harvey knew the terrain well, built a first wheel road across the Peninsula from Escanaba to Marquette, later directed construction of the Soo Locks, built the first elevated railway in New York City.

THE RECURRING DREAM—Every timber cruiser and trail-wise trapper in those days knew that once a sandstone cliff was broken through south of Au Train the waters of Lake Superior would spill naturally down into the basin of the Whitefish River, which empties into Little Bay de Noc.

Actual difference between the two lake levels is only 22 feet, although the high hills at Au Train make it appear greater.

The drop is the same as that between Lake Superior and Lake Huron, successfully linked for navigation by the St. Mary's River and canal and locks.

Through the years after Harvey's construction crews built the first canal and locks at Sault Ste. Marie, thoughts continued to turn to the old dream of an alternate route to the lower lakes.

UNFAVORABLE REPORT—The project was revived during World War II when there was real apprehension the Soo Locks would be bombed or sabotaged by the enemy.

The government favorably considered an alternate route for the ore haul and constructed ore docks at Escanaba for "emergency" use in the event the locks were bombed out. The cost was approximately $20,000,000. Today the docks are little more than memory.

But the dream of the alternate canal route persisted and in 1949 the U. S. Congress authorized a study by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Today the dream has again gone glimmering. The engineers reported unfavorably. "Benefits are insufficient to justify the very large cost" and not even a detailed survey will be made.

EQUALLY DISTANT—The other U. P. project which should perhaps receive prior attention to the Au Train-Whitefish River ship canal is the Straits of Mackinac Bridge.

This latter dream is as old—or older—than the first. There was talk of a bridge spanning the Straits as early as Civil War days.

When the then-famed Brooklyn Bridge was completed more than a half-century ago the folks of Northern Michigan sat up and took notice. An enterprising St. Ignace merchant used a picture of the Brooklyn Bridge in his advertising and called it the proposed Straits Bridge.

PILLAR TO POLITICS — Today the Straits Bridge project, despite the Michigan Straits Bridge Authority and notices in the press, is little closer to actuality than when Lincoln was President.

Much lip service has been given the proposal and it has been kicked around from pillar to politics for many years. But the state is not interested in financing the structure and the federal government has other uses for its tax dollars.

The Straits Bridge and the Au Train Ship Canal are, therefore, dreams that never came true. Always the dreamers have awakened to harsh reality and the knowledge that this is not the time. Later, perhaps later—say another 50 years.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk
"OH JUST COPESETIC, BOSS!"

Pernaps some reader will be able to throw some light on a couple of words that have long been bothering me. I have searched and searched, but have not as yet learned much of anything.

The tap dancer, Bill Robinson, often threw the word copesetic (KOH-puh-SET-ik) into his dialog. When he was feeling fit as a fiddle, fine and dandy, in the pink of condition, he would express that feeling by saying that everything was absolutely copesetic. The word became almost a trademark.

Bill thought he himself invented the word. In a letter to me on the subject he told about using it to the patrons of his shoe-shining stand in Richmond, Virginia, when he was a boy. A man would say, "Well, Bill, how do you feel this morning?" He would answer, "Oh, jes' copesetic, Boss; jes' copesetic!"

I am inclined to believe, however, that the term is older than that, that Bill picked up the word somewhere as a youngster, and appropriated it. But none of the few people who have told me that, can tell me anything more. I still want to know where copesetic came from, how old it is, and what it originally meant.

Then there is the word strand. In Florida, and perhaps elsewhere in the south, wood for the fire place is sold by the strand. That sense of the word does not appear in any dictionary. I'd like to put it in the dictionary, however, but just what does the term signify. In other words, what are the dimensions of a strand?

One man told me that it was supposed to be a stack of firewood four feet high by eight feet long, the firewood itself being of indefinite length—16 inches, 18 inches, or perhaps even 24 inches.

But if so, the last strand I bought, and paid for, could not have been more than half a strand.

And how did the word ever acquire such a meaning?

Ellen Borden Stevenson May Vote Republican

By RUTH COWAN
CHICAGO—(P)—The Democratic party has handed its presidential standard to Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, but he begins his campaign forewarned of one vote he might not get—that of his former wife.

Attorney Ellen Borden Stevenson, wealthy Chicago socialite and mother of their three sons, said as the balloting began that she still intends to vote Republican in November—not for any personal reason but as a matter of political conviction.

But November is three months off.

And her mother, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter of Chicago and Beverly, Mass., gave a hint her daughter might change her mind.

She said that she and her daughter "love the Democrats."

"We are in a great quandary at this moment," she continued.

Mrs. Stevenson's home on fashionable Stor Street on Chicago's gold coast is but a block away from the William Mc Cormick Blairs home. It was at the Blair house that the governor watched the balloting on television. Mrs. Stevenson sent him a note. It read:

Note of Congratulation

"Dear Adlai: Congratulations to the Democratic party for choosing the finest available Democrat for president. I know you will do your best for the American people. All good wishes to you personally."

She signed it "Ellen Borden Stevenson."

A divorce generally is considered a political strike against a candidate. Although the governor is not one to discuss his personal affairs, this may have been one reason for his reluctance to be the Democratic nominee.

Mrs. Stevenson, now 42, and a slim brunette, was regarded as one of Chicago's loveliest debutantes when she was 19, then a rising young lawyer ten years her senior. Their marriage in 1928, shortly after her presentation at the court of St. James in London, was one of the season's most brilliant social events.

After 21 years of married life, she obtained a Nevada divorce in 1949—shortly after he took office as governor—on the grounds of mental cruelty. Stevenson did not contest the suit, but said then that he opposed divorce in general.

Three Sons in Family

The three sons divide their vacation time between their parents. Two of them—John Fell, 16, and Borden, 19—looked on as the wildly cheering convention hailed their dad as "the next president."

The third son, Adlai III, 21, like his mother, watched the stirring events on television. He is now in the Marine Corps and training at Quantico, Va.

Mrs. Carpenter attended both the Republican and Democratic national conventions—the latter on admission tickets sent by her former son-in-law.

She disclosed that political differences were at the base of her daughter's separation and divorce.

Stevenson grew interested in public affairs during the early days of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt's "new deal" administrations.

But his wife did not share her husband's political interests and as the years passed she became increasingly unsympathetic toward the "new deal" and the "fair deal" of President Truman.

Mrs. Stevenson and the governor are on friendly terms—and they have many mutual friends. Some day her upbringing, wealth and artistic temperament did not equip her for the gregarious, handshaking and glass-bowl life of a public official's wife.

Believes in a Change

Events of the last few days have not swayed her decision to vote Republican in the national election.

"I truly believe there should be a change in administration," she said yesterday. "I stand on that."

Intimates confided she believes her former husband has done a good job as governor. The speculation is that, after all, she may feel her husband can do a good job as president and cast her vote for him.

It's a safe prediction that, if Stevenson wins, new faces would be seen in Washington. President Truman, in presenting Stevenson at the convention, noted Stevenson had no commitments back of the nomination he said he didn't want.

As to the possibility of a reconciliation, friends shrug their shoulders. But none seems to take seriously rumors linking Stevenson's name romantically with other women.

In fact, one good source said she believed he is "still carrying the torch."

Every cook who bakes cakes or cookies at home should have a rack on which to cool these products when they come out of the oven. A cake cools evenly on a rack and the crust doesn't sweat and peel off as it often does if the cake is cooled on a solid surface. Cooling racks have heavy wire frames shaped at the corners to provide supports that hold the rack a half inch or so above the table. The wires that form the rack may crisscross or they may all run in one direction.

Mrs. Truman Is Happiest Of Convention Wives

By RUTH COWAN
CHICAGO—(P)—Mrs. Harry S. Truman undoubtedly is the happiest of all women who played leading roles in the tense political drama here.

Relaxed and smiling, she accompanied President Truman in a "hail and farewell" appearance before last night's session of the 1952 Democratic national convention.

She has known the pride of a wife whose husband has been nominated in such conventions and elected, first to the vice presidency, then to the highest office in the land.

She didn't want her husband to carry on any longer the heavy burdens of the presidency.

But she understands well the fear, the apprehension of womenfolk in the families of men who are aspiring to the top places on the Democratic ticket.

To Remind Them

Custom has it that candidates should not be in the convention hall during the voting. But their womenfolk can be there, not only as spectators, but as reminders to delegates—and as they must be smiling, confident-looking.

So tired she could hardly stand, Nancy Kefauver, who had campaigned beside her husband since February, was in the hall regularly. Tennessee's Sen. Estes Kefauver, contrary to custom, also appeared in the Amphitheatre.

"I'm just as dismayed as anybody," Mrs. Kefauver told a reporter during last night's dramatic balloting.

Mrs. Averell Harriman could be seen in the Hariman box. But to her, her eyes weakened by a serious operation, the colorful spectacle was a blur of delegates, blinding lights, noise. Yet she smiled.

In the Stevenson box during nearly every session was Gov. Adlai Stevenson's sister, Mrs. Ernest Ives, excited and proud. With her, and just as interested, was the governor's 72-year-old aunt, Miss Letitia Stevenson of St. Louis, daughter of the Adlai Stevenson who was vice president in the Cleveland administration.

Probably the calmest of all was Also looking proud at the convention hall was Mrs. John Sparman, wife of the senator from Alabama, and Mrs. William Fulbright, whose husband is senator from Arkansas.

Both senators have been mentioned as possible vice-presidential choices—a decision left over to the final session today.

Vows Spoken By Verna C. Decker, Rodger Murray

HERE'S a gift idea that's cuter than Venus and what's more it has arms! At Blomstrom and Petersen, you can see the smart new glassware, Cambridge Arms and accessory units—a sparkling idea for decorative table centerpieces. You can make so many fascinating arrangements by using the basic units of Cambridge Arms and additional pieces. The arms fit into either a low or high pedestal. Several size peg vases fit into the unit, or you use them for candle sticks. The PegNappy is a small dish for candies, hors d'oeuvres or floating candles or flowers; it also pegs into the basic unit. Ask to see the Cambridge Arms at Blomstrom and Petersen. This lovely crystal makes a perfect wedding gift; for what could please the bride more than Arms and the man!

IT'S nice to live in a town that's skirted by Lake Michigan. But I'd rather be skirted by the Mata Brown Shoppe... especially since I saw the new arrivals in skirts that have made their pert appearance in this fashionable shop. My favorites, I guess, are the orlone pleated skirts in beige or gray. Orlane is a combination of 65% wool and 35% orlon. This makes the skirt washable in spite of the fantastic number of tiny pleats all around; and you get the comfortable warmth of soft wool plus the durability and washability of orlon! Also new are the navy and black faille skirts—dressed and well cut; and some yummy imported tweeds in black and brown. Fall's coming, and you can't skirt the issue—so skirt yourself from the Mata Brown Shoppe!

CRITICS of this column keep telling me that the pun is the lowest form of humor. I tell them the pun is mightier than the sword! The sword is mighty, though, in the spectacular movie that comes to the Michigan Theater next Sunday—"Scaramouche." It happens that I saw this technicolor thriller at Radio City in New York a few months ago, so I can really give some first hand info about it. Stewart Granger (and there's a man!) and Mel Merrer will give you some sword play to remember. Vivian Leigh and Eleanor Parker are so beautiful it's almost too bad to let your husband see this one. But the high excitement of the story is so thrilling, you mustn't keep him away. See "Scaramouche" next week—you'll thank me for it!

THE "Country Gentleman" says: Many girls Of single lot Would rather knot. And the girls who are entering the blissful state of marriage would rather not enter without silverplate in one of the beautiful patterns now available at Amundsen and Pearson. Especially exciting is the lovely new 1881 Rogers pattern, "Enchantment". A full 52 piece set (service for 8) plus an attractive, durable chest is only $49.75! Also see the Community plate pattern, "Evening Star", Holmes and Edwards' "Romance" and the charming "Daffodil" of 1847 Rogers. If it's silver you're after, you'll stake your best claim at Amundsen and Pearson!

JUST when my husband says he's beginning to see thru me, I buy another slip! After a visit to Gartner's yesterday I've definitely decided that the next slip will be a petticoat—because, girls, I've fallen in love with a wonderful suit that has a colorful, swishy petticoat attached. These new Petticoat suits are in a combination material of cotton and rayon that's crease resistant with a linen-like finish. Combinations sizes of 9-10, 15-16 etc. The luscious Fall colors are Dior Blue, Gray and Dawn (a warm brown). Flared skirts and stiffening in the hips give these little suits style galore. And Gartner's tiny price—$19.95. Once you see the swish of that gay petticoat, you're slipping!

AS one fellow put it—"The interior of the world is very hot, but the exterior is not so hot!" I found some interiors at the Photo Art Shop that should make your temperature rise. They're handmade, hand decorated wooden plaques—interior scenes with the third dimension which makes them come to life. These are imports from Italy done by Luigi D'Inni and are priced from $1.95 to $4.95. Exceptional gifts—and there's nobody who wouldn't like a scene from the Photo Art!

SOMEONE has defined jazz as "either a passing fancy or a lingering infatuation." But maybe a jam session can be instrumental in solving a gift problem for you. Eden's has stocked a wonderful new jam and jelly, gift boxed, for a gift that's sweet and lovely. One group of five jars comes packed in a long basket to be used later for serving crackers. Guava jelly, calomondin marmalade, and surinam lade besides some regulars. Prices begin at $2.25. Try Eden's Gift Shop if you're in a jam about what to give.

The Newport

A Small House Of Great Charm

Rooms ..... Five
Bedrooms ..... Two
Closets ..... Seven
Cubage ..... 19,800 ft.
Dimensions ..... 35' x 28'

Because it measures only 35 x 28 feet in overall dimensions, and has a cubage of 19,800 feet "The Newport" can easily be built on a 60 foot lot. These figures do not, of course, allow for a garage. You can easily have an attached or detached garage built at the same time as the house by making such arrangements with your contractor. However, whether you plan to have the garage constructed at the same time as the house or at some later date, be sure to obtain a large enough lot to accommodate both the house and the garage.

While a combination fieldstone and clapboard exterior is used for the house in the illustration, a plain masonry, shingled or clapboarded exterior would be equally attractive and appropriate for "The Newport." This delightful little home can be built in any type of a location. Simple landscaping is recommended.

The little front stoop, which adds to the decorative appeal of the house's exterior, serves the practical function of protecting the front entrance. Guests and the family alike will appreciate this protection from sun and storm. Although there is no entry hall in "The Newport," because the front door opens directly on the living room, there is a closet conveniently placed in the hallway connecting the living room and the other rooms in this house; this can serve as the storage place for guests wraps.

Plenty of Light

One large picture window, centered in the front wall, and two windows in the left wall provide an abundance of light and ventilation for the 20'x11'4" living room. The large fireplace in the left wall, between the two windows, should be the focal point of decorative interest in the room; the long unbroken right wall makes the attractive arrangement of large furniture pieces an easy task indeed.

Measuring 13'x11'4", the kitchen contains a wealth of working counters, and storage cupboards and cabinets; these are arranged in an L shaped array along the front and left walls. Under the large window in the left wall is the selected and most popular location for the sink. Put the stove at the right end of the line of working counters and the refrigerator against the back wall.

Across the hall from the bathroom is the 10 foot square den. This room can be used as it will best suit the needs of you and your family and is so designed that it can serve as a den for the man of the house, a combination den and library, a guest room or as a third bedroom. One window, looking out on the front yard, provides sufficient light and ventilation for the room and the good sized closet, in the back wall, will come in handy regardless of the use to which you decide to put this room. Both the right and left walls are unbroken by doors or windows and, should you decide to use this room as a combination den-library, bookshelves can be built along either of these walls.

Stairs to the basement lead down from the central hallway between the door to the bathroom and the one to the back bedroom. One window in the back wall and another in the right wall guarantee good lighting and cross ventilation for this bedroom, which is 11'6" x 11'4". Since this room is designed to serve as the master bedroom in "The Newport" it has two generous sized closets; one of the closets is in the left wall and the other is in the front wall.

There is cross ventilation and good lighting in the front bedroom also. One window is in the front wall of this 11'4" x 12' room; the other is in the right wall.

AS WE LIVE

Steer Clear Of Man Who Drinks To Drown Sorrows

Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.

When people are angry or upset, they have different ways of expressing their feelings. Some turn inward and seethe with emotions; some have outward expressions, such as temper tantrums and fears and some drink. The young woman who wrote the following letter goes with a man who uses the latter outlet for his emotions:

(Q) "I have been going out with a fellow I love very much. I am also very fond of a fellow in the service, who has asked me to wait for him, but the one at home gives me a good time. I am tired of waiting for the serviceman. He gets only short furloughs and then there is no one for me to go with and nothing to do unless I go with the other fellow. The fellow in the service would do anything for me. The other goes out and drinks whenever we have a fight. Please advise me what to do."

(A) The man in the service seems to be a far better matrimonial bet. At the moment, it is hard on you to have him away but if you love each other, he is worth waiting for. When he comes home you will have a chance to make up for the good times you've missed.

Don't consider the other man seriously as a husband. He is taking a cowardly way out of trouble by drinking. And don't fool yourself into believing that he will stop when you are married. He has given you a preview of what to expect if you marry him.

All married people have disagreements if not actual quarrels from time to time. It is inevitable unless one partner is so spineless that he never expresses his opinions or disagrees with anything the other partner says or does.

But a person who drinks when things are not running along smoothly is impossible to live with. He will squander money that is needed for the home and make life wretched for you and any family you may have. Don't risk your future happiness with him.

Dr. Hurlock is author of 11 books in psychology. Her advice in this column is free. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Red Love Denounced Among Malaysian Reds

SINGAPORE —(P)—Political commissars of Malaya's Communist terrorist army have secret jungle huts in which to make love to lady friends. But the lower ranks of the force are compelled to await the women "left" over from the upper ranks.

This was revealed by a surrendered terrorist commander, Ching Kuen, of the 5th Communist Regiment, who gave himself up with 12 members of his unit, including three women.

Half a million copies of an open letter by Ching Kuen containing "eye-openers" of terrorist life in the Malayan jungles were air-dropped to his comrades.

Turko-Yugoslav Trade Development Begun

BELGRADE —(P)—Hungry for new markets and new sources of raw material, Yugoslavia has been developing in recent months closer trade relations with Turkey in a move which may strengthen relations between the two southeast European countries.

This country, woefully short of textiles, is dickering with Turkey for large scale purchases of cotton. For its part, Turkey wants wheat, dried fruit, cement, some finished goods and manganese.

Business between the two countries so far has largely been carried out on a barter basis. For example, Yugoslavia recently signed a contract for 5,000 tons of wheat to be paid for in cement and wood products.

Following the naming of the new queen the girls will be lunch guests of the VFW queens committee.

The new queen will be crowned Saturday night, Aug. 9, at opening water festival activities at Indian Lake. An Indian theme will be featured in the coronation ceremony, with particular reference to the site of the old Baraga Mission House and the Seven Year Spring, both located near Arrowhead Inn. Last year a nautical theme was used during the ceremony.

The seven queen candidates are: Margaret Mueller, Barbara Clements, Charlene Eck, Shirley Demars, Connie McEachern, Cleo Johnson and Delores Toyra.

Gas-Drinking Habit Of Ethiopians Fought

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia.—(AP)—Ethiopians drink gasoline to the point that the Ministry of Public Health is really alarmed.

"Gasoline is poison and inflammable and should never be drunk in place of medicine," the Ministry declared. The warning branded those who "persuade others to drink gasoline and those who allow themselves to be so persuaded" as criminals.

The desire for gasoline as a position is due to the widespread Ethiopian custom of eating raw meat. This, in turn, has caused the people to be widely affected with parasitic stomach worms.

The Health Ministry recommends a substitute made from berries for gasoline addicts.

Malayan RAF Seeking Combat Helicopters

SINGAPORE.—(AP)—The Royal Air Force in Malaya is making inquiries in London about the possibility of obtaining large helicopters capable of carrying up to 20 men each for use in the war against the Communist terrorists. The big hover-planes could be used by combat troops to descend into jungle clearings to intercept fleeing terrorists instead of hacking their way slowly as at present.

It is understood, however, that Western Union and other rearmament commitments will make it unlikely that such troop-carrying helicopters will be made available to Malaya for some time.

Lindbergh Matchbook Now Collector's Item

NEW YORK.—(AP)—One of the most valued matchbooks among collectors is the one issued 25 years ago this month when Charles Lindbergh was honored at a luncheon in the Hotel Astor following his epic non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Tom Torrent, who runs a Brooklyn hobby shop, says his faded copy is valued at $100—but he won't sell.

Fishdam Bridge On Advent Road Closed; To Build New Span

A bridge across the Fishdam River on the Advent Road, west of Cooks, has been broken through and is no longer usable, it is reported by the U. S. Forest Service.

The bridge has been barricaded to prevent vehicles from trying to cross it.

Construction of a new bridge at the site is expected to start within a few weeks, it is reported. Material for the new span has been received, and part of it is now at the bridge site.

The structure will be built by the Forest Service.

Final Plans For Sportsmen Picnic Sunday Are Made

Final plans for the annual picnic of the Schoolcraft County Sportsmen's Club, to be held Sunday at the club building grounds, were outlined at a meeting of the club Thursday night.

The outing will start at 1, and during the early afternoon a program of games for youngsters, horseshoe contests, and a softball game are slated. Starting at 3, William Johnson, of Waupaca, Wis., rifle expert for a nationally known arms manufacturer, will present a demonstration of shooting and also will give a message on firearms safety.

Volunteer workers are needed at the picnic grounds at 10 a. m. Sunday to make final arrangements for the picnic.

Tickets will be available at the club building.

Highlight of Thursday night's session was a report on a recent MUCC camp by Ray and Jack Lanier who were sent to the camp by the local club.

Both boys were made full members of the club at the conclusion of their report.

The group also discussed the possibility of organizing a junior sportsmen's club for boys 14 years old and over. Local youths interested may contact either Ray or Jack Lanier or any club member.

The Water Festival

Several years back Manistique used to hold a blueberry festival. It was designed not so much to publicize the blueberry as to glorify the multitude of summer attractions offered by the Manistique country. Unfortunately, it was based on the blueberry as a symbol, and the blueberry crop was rather erratic.

Water we always have in abundance, and it is a natural for a summer festival. Moreover, it is our water—lakes, streams, creeks and Lake Michigan—which is the primary attraction for summer vacationists.

So congratulations to the Veterans of Foreign Wars for their efforts in arranging our second annual VFW Water Festival, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 9 and 10. They deserve our full support.

Another U. P. athlete has inked a minor league baseball contract. The latest to catch the eye of a major league scout is Joe Steiner of Iron Mountain, a top-notch high school athlete who graduated this Spring . . . He signed with Maurice DeLoof, Boston Red Sox scout . . . The Iron Mountain youth will go to Spring training at Sarasota, Fla., next year.

When Al's Bark River team won the 11th district American Legion Junior baseball tournament at Menominee Wednesday night the club was presented with a team trophy. It was the first to be awarded since the tournaments were begun in 1948.

Russ Hiltunen continues to star for his Fort Leonard Wood Army baseball team. Little Rusty, 140 pounds of pitching dynamite who wrote mound history in the Tri County League here last season, recently won his fifth straight game at Fort Leonard Wood. He hasn't lost a start. In fact he hasn't even allowed a run. Ft. Leonard Wood plays in baseball circles comparable to organized ball's AA leagues.

Rusty may wind up in Japan before the season is over if his team keeps up its present winning ways. The club is entered in the Missouri state finals tournament. If Fort Leonard Wood wins, it will compete in the national playoff in North Carolina and could earn a month's trip to Japan to play ball there. Fort Leonard Wood has won 43 games and lost five this season.

Mathias Leads; New Marks In Olympics

HELSINKI—(AP)—Bob Mathias, the defending champion from Tulare, Calif., increased his lead in the Olympic decathlon competition after seven events today while assorted other athletes continued the business of methodically wrecking Olympic records.

Mathias, who set a world record in the American decathlon tryouts, dominated the two events unoff this morning.

After seven events, he had a total of 6,099 points heading the three-man American delegation at the top of the scoring list. Milton Campbell, 18-year-old Plainfield, N. J., schoolboy, held second place with 5,704 points and Floyd Simmons of Los Angeles was third with 5,303.

Ignace Heinrich of France, second to Mathias in the 1948 Olympic decathlon at London, dropped out of the competition after six events because of a twisted ankle. Hipp of Germany moved into the fourth spot with 5,044 points. The remaining three decathlon events will be run off this afternoon.

The 24th Olympic record of the regular track and field competition was broken right at the start of the qualifying trials in the women's shot put. Klavdia Tchenova of Russia threw the shot 45 feet 45 inches to shatter the Olympic mark of 45 feet 1.33 inches set by Frances Michelen Ostermeyer in 1948.

The swimmers got right into the record breaking act. Eva Novak of Hungary, world record holder in the women's 200-meter breast, won her trial heat in two minutes, 45 seconds, breaking the Olympic mark of 2:57.2 by N. van Vliet of Holland. Miss Novak's world record is 2:48.5.

Another Hungarian girl, Eva Sikely, also bettered the old Olympic breast stroke mark with a 2:55.1 performance. Two American entries failed to qualify in the 100-yard dash. Gail Peters of Washington placed sixth in one heat and Jay Cornell of Portland, Ore., eighth in another.

Mathias, although trailing his world record pace, was almost the whole show in the decathlon. He ran his heat in the 110-meter hurdles in 14.7 seconds,

Lions Meet Lions In Unique 'Game' Monday

Monday night's benefit game at the Little League diamond between the Lions Little Leaguers and Lions promises to be a monstrosity of the diamond.

"A big ball for the big Lions and a little ball for the little Lions should be a fair proposition," commented manager Nick Bink who will be short stop for the men.

No one is quite sure how the game will turn out, but with Mike Walsh and Grover Lewis umpiring it's a cinch that the Lions can't lose. The fundamental idea of the game will have the older Lions looking at one pitch softball, while the youngsters will be looking at regulation Little League pitching. However, it is reported that promoter Gust Asp is bringing in Jack Chrisko from the Bears to handle the pitching duties.

The game will also feature several innovations. There will be a putting green out in right field for Lions like Art Jensen who find it difficult to leave the game of golf during the summer. And a "body-grocery-catch" game will be injected into the game just in case some one gets a little fatigued.

Other Lions who are warming up the liniment bottle include Ken Gunderman at first, Tom Wilkinson at second, Nick Bink at short, Emil Zitner at third, Mel Trams in left, Percy Rosemurgy in center and Cliff Vadnais in right. So far nobody has felt rugged enough to handle the catching duties, but it is interesting to note that all Lions are bringing their boys along, just in case.

If the "Lone Stranger," Dick Perring, can back his white charger out of the cinema, the payoff will be on horseback. It will probably be a hold-up but all funds will go to help finance the Little League All Stars to the district tournament at Stevens Point, Wis.

However, lest the boys get the wrong idea of their sponsors, they will be guests of the Lions after the game and will be treated to the biggest dish Lion Fred Saykly can whip up.

Bears, Cubs Play Home Tilts Sunday

A pair of games are slated for Sunday afternoon at the Escanaba city diamond.

The Escanaba Cubs of the Waubung Club will take to the field at 1 o'clock to play their regularly scheduled game against Bark River. Following that game the Escanaba Bears will take on Wallace in a Tri County feature.

Manager Al Ness will probably send Gary Paler to the mound against Bark River in the opener. At the completion of the game, the Cubs will travel to Bark River to play out a game which was halted by rain two weeks ago.

The playoff will resume in the sixth inning with the Cubs leading 11-9 and two out. The game was tied 9-9 at the end of five.

The Bears will toss either Jack Chrisko or Jack Beck at Wallace. The Escanaba club, top team in the circuit, is rapidly approaching the position where a playoff berth is mathematically cinched. Following Sunday's games, the Tri County has five weeks of action remaining before the playoffs.

League officials announced today that the Perronville-Bark River game has been changed to Perronville's diamond. The first round game slated at Perronville was shifted to Bark River for a Fourth of July feature.

The Bears will be minus first baseman Babe Kleiman Sunday. Kleiman, who is out of town, will be replaced on first base by Ed Gauthier, Manager Beck said.

Other Waubung League games will have Gladstone at Perronville and Powers at Al's, although the latter game will probably be postponed because of the American Legion tourney in progress at Negaunee.

Pony League Stars Lose To DeKalb In District Tourney

JOLIET, Ill.—(Special)—The Escanaba Pony League all-stars outfit DeKalb, Ill., here last night but were the victims of their own errors in losing 9-5 in a first round tournament clash.

The Pony Leaguers played before a 3,000 crowd in extreme heat. Escanaba collected seven hits off DeKalb's hurler while Bob Rodman limited opposing batsmen to six safeties. Escanaba led twice in the game.

The Escanaba team will play Manitoba, Canada, tonight at 7 for third place in the tourney.

Marciano Eyes Early Victory

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y.—(AP)—Straining for the sound of the bell that will cut him loose against Harry Matthews Monday night at Yankee stadium, Rocky Marciano today winds up his training camp work.

Nobody is tipping his hand on the battle plan of the unbeaten Brockton, Mass., slugger with 36 knockout victories in 41 fights. But there is a strong suspicion that he will come out winging from the first bell, shooting for an early crusher.

The winner gets Jersey Joe Walcott for the world heavyweight championship in September. But the winner will be more attractive if he is an early knockout winner.

"It all depends on what the other guy does," said Charley Goldman, his trainer. "If he runs, we'll have to catch him. If he stands still and fights, Rocky will be ready."

The swarthy slugger, bronzed by a six-week conditioning program, wasn't quite so evasive. "I'm going after him as soon as I can," he said. "No waiting. As soon as I find an opening, I'll shoot the works."

St. Thomas Defeats Eagles By 22-5 Count

St. Thomas defeated the Eagles 22-5 Wednesday night in an Old-time League game.

Bill Doucette and Willie Doucette went for St. Thomas with Winchester and Eliason working for the Eagles.

Olympic Champs

HELSINKI—(AP)—Olympic champions crowned yesterday: Track and Field
400-meter run, George Rhoden, Jamaica, 45.9 (New Olympic record; old record 46.2 set by Arthur Wint, Jamaica, 1948).

Iron River Beats Al's Bark River 5-0 In Opener

NEGAUNEE—(Special)—Southpaw Roland Pearson twirled a three-hitter and fanned 18 batters here this morning as Iron River turned in a 5-0 win over Al's Bark River Legion team in the American Legion Junior baseball tourney opener.

Dick Cass went the route for Bark River, allowing nine hits and fanning six. Bill Lancoir, Jim Greenwood and Florian Bartoszek collected Bark River's hits, all singles.

Girls Softball Meet Drawings Will Be Sunday

The drawings for the Eastern division tournament of the U. P. girls softball championships will be held after the second game of the doubleheader tomorrow afternoon at Memorial Field.

Five teams are entered, which will necessitate the playing of one game on Saturday, Aug. 2, two games on Sunday afternoon and the finals in the evening of Aug. 3. All games will be played at Gladstone.

The teams registered are Soo Chicks, Escanaba Bluejays, Blondie's Bar of Negaunee, Marquette and Tim & Sally's of Escanaba. Marquette is the defending champion of the Eastern division as well as U. P. and state Class C.

The doubleheader to be held at Memorial Field tomorrow afternoon will give a good indication of the comparative strength of the top teams. Marquette has defeated Calumet, who in turn were beaten by Hancock Hilltoppers who will play the Esby Bluejays in the first game starting at 2.

The Bluejays lost two and won one from Marquette this year. Tim & Sally's have not played Marquette this year and lost a heartbreaker 3-0 to their local rivals, so it looks like a tossup for the championship.

The doubleheader at Royce Park will start promptly at 6 with Tim & Sally's meeting Hancock Hilltoppers. The second game will bring together the Esby Bluejays and Marquette.

Feature Doubleheader Slated Sunday Night

In local league action, the American circuit will complete its third round of games, weather permitting. Following are the games which promise to be most interesting: Carney vs. Harnischfeger on Monday night, White Birch vs. Harnischfeger on Wednesday evening, and White Birch vs. Paper Mill on Thursday night.

Team managers of the district and local softball officers have been appointed to the 1952 classification committee. They will meet at Memorial Field Thursday evening at 8:30 to classify the teams for the district tournament which will be held here Aug. 5-10. Their recommendations will be referred to the U. P. Softball Association at their meeting in Iron Mountain Aug. 3.

Flat Rock Juniors Top Gladstone 5-0

The Flat Rock Delta Frames posted a 5-0 victory over the Gladstone Cubs in a Junior League baseball game at Flat Rock yesterday.

Ernie Beauchamp tossed two-hit ball for the winners and issued only one walk. Darel Collins was his battery mate.

Arthur Hoskins and Fred Lash made up the Cub battery. Hoskins gave up six hits and walked three.

Tigers Again Try To Make It Three Victories In Row

DETROIT—(AP)—What's a guy gotta do to win three games in a row? The last place Detroit Tigers haven't managed it this season.

Today for the eighth time they were to try for their third straight. However, the opponents were the league-leading New York Yankees.

Here's the Tiger tale of frustration:
1. Defeated Cleveland 13-0 and 1-0 but Boston ended streak 5-3.
2. Defeated Washington 3-2 and 1-0 but New York halted it 3-2.
3. Defeated Philadelphia 5-1 and Chicago 9-2 but Chicago halted it 3-0.
4. Defeated Cleveland 6-4 and 6-2 but Cleveland ended it 11-4.
5. Defeated Philadelphia 12-2 and Boston 4-2 but Boston ended it 11-9.
6. Defeated Washington 7-6 and 7-3 but Washington stopped it 4-2.
7. Defeated St. Louis 5-0 and 8-6 but Boston stopped it 16-6.
8. Defeated Washington 4-2 and New York 2-1 last night and now what?

Down the Fairway

Cuff notes scratched at the 19th hole: In case you're wondering what happened to the Marquette-Escanaba inter-club match here last Sunday, it was rained out. . . . In fact, it was a deluge. . . . But it wasn't a no-contest affair. . . . It should be recorded as a win for Escanaba because one Dr. Norman Lindquist was the only golfer of both squads brave enough to challenge the elements and play a round during the height of the storm. . . . He played nine holes while 25 golfers from Marquette and about half that many from Escanaba cooled their heels (?) in the clubhouse waiting for the storm to abate.

Congratulations to Norm Lindquist, who in this case was a one-man golf team for Escanaba! . . . Many Marquette golfers stayed to play the course late Sunday afternoon (after the rain) in preparation for the U. P. tourney here Aug. 7, 8 and 9. . . . Among the Marquette U. P. championship hopefuls here were Dr. Robert Berry, 1940 U. P. champion; Dr. W. D. Salo, Dr. Ray Bolen (who abhors a twang), St. Germain (brother of Escanaba's Tom St. Germain), Paul Specker, Bob Thomsen, George Gingsas and Wally Johnson. . . . Many of this crew plan to warm up for the U. P. by participating in the big Arrowhead meet in Duluth the first week in August.

Harry Needham and Ed Barry were the two Escanaba prize winners in the U. P. Elks tourney in Newberry. . . . And while that was going on, Elmer Swanson and Wendell Lund were participating in the Great Lakes Amateur meet in Garry, Ind. . . . Swanson practiced well, with a couple of sub-40 scores, but he didn't do quite as well when match play got underway. . . . These Upper Michigan golfers really get around, eh?

Ray Kiefner, who is leaving these parts to go to work in Minneapolis, Minn., the state from whence he and his pretty wife, Julie, came, played a farewell round the other day at the Escanaba Golf club. . . . And it was one of his best, a very neat 37. . . . Gerald Cleary shot a 43 the other day, and he's still asking for strokes from his two sons, Warren and Joe. . . . Even after beating them that day. . . . Can you imagine that?

Stack Smith, former sub-par golfer at the Escanaba Golf club, came out of semi-retirement last week to record a commendable 44. . . . And Don Boyce, the only four-time winner of the U. P. championship, did likewise to fire a fine 39. . . . Larry Fleming turned in his first round under 50, his lowest in some time. . . . Fleming could be a tough customer on the links or on the bowling lanes with more practice.

Joe and Peg Poffenberger are getting a belated golfing start this season. . . . Playing with Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Shepek Thursday, Joe shot a 39. . . . A few days previously, Peg had a deuce on No. 3. . . . A 30-foot putt turned the trick. . . . Dr. Harold Groos, playing his first round in three years, also recorded a deuce. . . . He got his birdie two on No. 7.

Incidentally, the grapevine reports that Percy Weinberg and not Bill Puckelwartz is the original "shorts" man at the Escanaba Golf club. . . . Percy was three years ahead of Puckelwartz in appearing on the court in shorts. . . . Now, if we could get Hal Gerletti to make a foursome shortstone with Art Goulais, John Greene and George Stuart, we'll get Bernie Schultz to record same for posterity.

Bunny Moersch proved he is still Highland's longest woman driver by winning that event at the recent U. P. invitational at Escanaba. . . . O'Neill D'Amour, of Gladstone, recently had his brother Pete, of Chicago, out for several rounds at the Escanaba club. . . . Pete is a deadly putter and O'Neill is only a blade of grass behind him.

Sgt. N. H. Modders, Manistiquette state police commander, proved he's more than an expert pistol shot by firing a dramatic 38 while playing with T. H. Bolitho. . . . The ironical part about the whole thing is that Bolitho had to give him two strokes. . . . But we'll wager that's the last time. . . . Bud Malloy and John Kasun Jr. each fired 37's in Manistiquette, while Bill Corson Sr. fashioned a five-stroke win over Ron, Bill Jr.—JGW

Brewers Creep Up On Kansas City

(By The Associated Press)
Milwaukee slugged to within a game and a half of the American Association leaders, the Kansas City Blues, with a 9-7 conquest of Charleston Friday night as the Blues were fumbling to a 4-3 loss to Columbus.

Home runs by Bill Bruton, Buzz Clarkson and Luis Marquez powered the Brewer attack against Charleston, which countered with a strong but belated attack itself, headed by Fred Taylor's three-run pinch homer.

Home runs—Headed by Ray Dandridge's two circuit clouts—accounted for all the winning runs as Minneapolis beat Indianapolis 6-4. Clint Hartung and Daryl Spencer also got one each.

Bert Haas' squeeze bunt in the ninth inning scored the winning run as St. Paul beat Louisville 4-3.

Move Into Third Place

Indians Bounce Back

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Cleveland Indians, counted out as a pennant threat early this week, are back in business once again.

When the league-leading New York Yankees dumped the Indians 7½ games off the pace by sweeping a doubleheader Tuesday, it looked like curtains for the Tribe.

But the Indians bounced back, knocking the Yanks off twice. Last night they whipped Washington, 4-2, and took over third place from the Senators, 4½ games behind New York and only ½ back of second place Boston.

Red Sox Lose
The Yanks, meanwhile, suffered their third straight loss as they bowed to the Tigers in Detroit, 2-1. The Red Sox remained four games astern of the Bombers by dropping a 3-2 squeaker to the St. Louis Browns. The Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox divided a two-night doubleheader, the White Sox winning the opener, 5-0, and the A's the second game, 5-4.

In the National League, the New York Giants defeated Cincinnati, 3-1, in the major's only day game and climbed to within 5½ games of Brooklyn's pace-setting Dodgers. The St. Louis Cardinals trounced the Dodgers, 8-4, while in other games, Pittsburgh shaded Boston, 3-2, and Chicago belted Philadelphia, 8-3.

Early Wynn allowed the Senators only six hits in besting Bob Porterfield. Wynn blanked Washington after the first inning in hanging up his 11th victory. Home runs by Jim Hegan and Larry Doby featured Cleveland's seven-hit attack. Doby clouted his 18th homer in the fourth to break a 2-2 tie.

Hearn Stars
Former Yankee Steve Souchock homered in the ninth on Bob Kuzava's first pitch to fracture a 1-1 tie and beat his old mates. Mickey Mantle clouted his 14th homer in the fourth off Tiger Art Houtteman and that was all the scoring until the eighth when Johnny Groth tied

Girard Goes To Lions In Trade

YPSILANTI — (P)—The Detroit Lions of the National Football league today acquired half-back Earl (Jug) Girard, former University of Wisconsin star, from the Green Bay Packers. In return, the Lions gave up end Ed Berrang, rookie tackle Steve Dowden of Baylor and a third player to be named later.

Girard, 25, has four years of pro experience. The 175-pound left halfback averaged 40.4 yards in punting last year, intercepted five passes and caught ten passes for two touchdowns.

Meanwhile the Lions released the first three players from their rookie camp — halfbacks Ray Oliverson of Brigham Young, Jim Hollman of Arkansas Baptist and William Keyes of Detroit Northern high school. Still in camp are 28 rookies.

The Lions announced the signing of Jack Christiansen, a defensive back and punt return specialist.

Boxer Chuck Spieser, Michigan State's light-heavyweight Olympic representative, lost only one bout during his collegiate career.

it up with a two-out run-scoring single.

The Browns nudged rookie Bob Brodowski for only three hits but they bunched two of them along with two walks in the seventh inning to beat the Red Sox. Bobby Young's two-run triple featured the uprising. Home runs by Hoot Evers and Dick Gernert accounted for all of Boston's runs off Tommy Byrne.

Jim Hearn was the whole show in the Giants triumph over Cincinnati. He limited the Reds to four hits and won his own game with a two-run homer in the fifth.

The Cards snapped a 4-4 tie in the seventh when relief pitcher Ed Yuhus doubled home the run. The Red Birds sewed it up with three more in the ninth off loser Johnny Schmitz.

The Blues came back this week to defeat the Whites, 16½ to 12, in Twilight league golf this week, but the Whites still lead the two teams by aggregate score of 138½ to 129.

Watchmaking Becomes More Intricate Work
NEW YORK —(P)—American watchmakers have developed a new microscopic technique to insure further accuracy in the manufacture of fine watches.

It involves the attaching of a delicate hairspring to a collet or "spool" which controls the rate at which the balance wheel oscillates. An "eye-dropper" was designed to apply adhesive to the bonding surface.

Since the collet slot is about the thickness of a human hair, so little adhesive is used that a teaspoonful will last an operator more than a week.

Lincoln Desk Still Used In Yard Office
CENTRALIA, Ill.—(P)—A desk Abraham Lincoln used in studying law in Illinois' capital more than 100 years ago may be seen in a lumber yard office at Golconda on the Ohio River.

The useful desk still is in good repair. Its first owner, Wesley Sloan, made his Springfield, Ill., law office and books available to young Lincoln who studied at the desk. Sloan retired with his office furniture to Golconda. The desk was purchased by the late Jim Walker, lumberyard owner, who put the desk to use in his office.

In the early days of the United States, its citizens are believed to have eaten about 300 pounds of meat a year says the National Geographic Society.

Illinois Chief Executive Wins On Third Ballot

political strategists got in missionary work, converting key states and individual delegates.

In the wind-up, the party's 31st convention thrust its banner to the governor at the end of the third ballot.

The Illinois governor, whose bandwagon rolled over Kefauver and Russell in tense convention balloting after W. Averell Harriman of New York had withdrawn, keynoted his own campaign in his acceptance speech early today.

"Let's Talk Sense"

"More important than winning the election is governing the nation," he told the Democrats solemnly. "That is the test of a political party—the acid, final test. When the tumult and the shouting die, when the bands are gone and the lights are dimmed, there is the stark reality of responsibility in an hour haunted by those gaunt, grim specters of strife, dissension and materialism at home and ruthless, inescapable and hostile power abroad."

Asserting that the "bloodiest, most turbulent era of the Christian era is far from over," Stevenson declared:

"Sacrifice, patience, understanding and implacable purpose may be our lot for years to come. Let's face it. Let's talk sense to the American people."

It was not the usual recital of glowing promises of the future and laudatory references to the party's past record expected from most nominees.

Stevenson said he expects the Republicans will call the Democrats appeasers, the war party, reactionary and socialistic. But he said he is not worried about GOP cries of "throw the rascals out."

"I am not too much concerned with partisan denunciation, epithets and abuse," he said, "because the working man, the farmer, the thoughtful business man, all know they are better off than ever before."

The nominee praised the Democrats for threshing out their convention differences "without calling each other liars and thieves" as he said the Republicans had done in proving here two weeks ago that their party was "brutally alive."

Respects Eisenhower

Without naming the general directly, Stevenson said Eisenhower is "a leader whom we all respect, but who has been called upon to minister to a helpless case of political schizophrenia (split personality)" in attempting to hold the Republican party together.

Stevenson, who said he had accepted the nomination humbly in the belief that a better man could have been found for it, promised that "I will fight to win x x x with all my heart and soul."

Stevenson's nomination climaxed a day of slow and painful balloting during which Kefauver's fortunes rose only to crash to earth in an after-recess third ballot last night.

Kefauver High at 362
Kefauver, who called himself the peoples choice because he won most of the Democratic primaries, rolled to a high tide mark of 362½ votes on the second ballot.

At that point, Stevenson had reached 324½ votes, Russell had 294 and Harriman brought up the rear with 121.

A two hour recess gave Truman, Jacob M. Arvey, Illinois national committeeman, and some other Stevenson backers time to bring up their heavy guns. Harriman went out of the race and broke open the New York delegation. That started things.

Gov. Paul Dever of Massachusetts turned loose his state's delegation, telling the convention dramatically that Stevenson had informed him he would "be happy to accept the nomination." It was the first public word to that effect. Stevenson had insisted he wanted only to run for re-election in Illinois.

The handwriting was on the wall for all to see and members of the "Fair Deal" wing of the party hurried to Kefauver to get him to withdraw in Stevenson's favor.

This group, which included Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Sen. Blair Moody of Michigan, wanted the Stevenson nomination to come from—rather than be forced upon—their wing of the party.

Reveal Stevenson As Middle-Road Democrat

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO—(NEA)—Illinois Governor Adlai Stevenson's publicly-voiced ideas on government add up to a portrait of a man who is a middle-of-the-road Democrat many paces to the right of the New Deal-Fair Deal.

Thus, though he embraces most of the present administration's foreign policy, its record in the domestic field cannot be fastened upon him. He had no part in its making, and he feels no deep accord with it.

In the nearly four years he has been governor, Stevenson has etched his views sharply over the whole range of government policy. There are no important blank spots. And in the process of getting himself on the record, he has revealed a notable talent for phrase-making.

His speeches shine with rhetoric that can be remembered, with lines tinged with humor. His welcoming speech to the Democratic Convention underlined this characteristic. For example, he jibed at the Republicans for being "out of patience, out of sorts, and need I add, out of office."

Stevenson's utterances show him fearful of further enlargement of federal operations and consequently cautious on health insurance, public housing, and nationally-enforced civil rights. In this caution lies the secret of his acceptability to all wings of his party. He has outraged no one.

Here are excerpts from his speeches, covering a wide field:

Government philosophy:
"I do not identify big government with good government. . . I think government should be as small in scope and as local in character as possible. But it is the job that needs doing that must shape and delimit the area of governmental activity." (New York, 1949.)

Health Insurance:
"I am against the socialization of the practice of medicine. If the insurance principle could be brought to bear on catastrophic illnesses, it would largely eliminate the specter of terror from the average home. I am sure that this objective can largely be realized without the destruction of professional independence."

Housing:
"Teamwork between government and private builders is the only ultimate solution of our housing needs. No single group, public or private, can do the job. . . The aim, as I understand it, of the Federal Housing act, is to encourage, not compete with private housing." (Springfield, Ill., 1949.)

Taxes and Spending:
"Confronted with an enormous increase in the Federal budget, the preoccupation of the whole country today has become the cost of government. Money will be harder and harder to get to maintain, let alone expand, state services. Can we do more for less? I know we must. I think we can." (Chicago, 1950.)

"The more we do for ourselves, the less demand there will be upon government to do it for us. If the communities shift part of their normal responsibilities to the state or Federal governments, their state or Federal taxes will be higher and their control over the spending of their tax money will be further from their hands. It is as simple as that." (Farmerville, Ill., 1950.)

Labor relations:
"I am this much of an expert on the Taft-Hartley law: I know that anyone who says flatly he is either for or against that law is indulging our common weakness for over simplification. . . Some features of the law seem to me to advance the cause of good labor relations, and other features do not. I think the Democrats should recommend modification. We must learn that whether we work in a factory or in the front office, whether we are employees or employers, we have the same self-interest in the harmonious management of our affairs. There is no such thing as a victory of one segment of our society over another; we progress on a common front or we don't progress at all." (Chicago, 1949.)

Civil rights:
"In Illinois I have tried earnestly to effect the adoption of a fair employment practices law with powers of enforcement. I feel very strongly this is the first responsibility of the states themselves. If the states are unwilling or unable to prevent discrimination in hiring workers, then I presume there is no alternative to having the Federal government do so."

Corruption in government:
"Let there be no misunderstanding. We have not, we do not, we will not condone, excuse or explain wrong-doing or moral obliquity in public office, whoever the guilty and whatever their station. One corrupt official is one too many. If there is Democratic dirt, let us clean it up and turn the flashlight into every corner. Corruption is treason. . . high standards of public service were never more important than now. The free world looks to us for leadership. The greatest weapon we have in the struggle is public and private morality." (Chicago, 1952.)

Communism:
"Communism is the corruption of a dream of justice." (Chicago, 1952.)

"Communism resolves no anxieties. It multiplies them. It organizes terror. It is without spiritual content or comfort. It provides no basic security. In the long run it cannot cure the disease of this anxious age." (Evanston, Ill., 1951.)

Foreign policy:
"The Democratic party should continue to stress in the future, as it has in the past, the necessity for mobilizing our strength, both military and economic, in support of the free nations of the world."

"I believe in the maintenance in Europe of American forces for the period required to assure the protection of Europe. I recognize that the size of our force must always be limited by what is possible for us to do."

"Military force alone cannot win the day for us in Asia. Our moral authority there is low because we are white and Asia is colored. . . It will take great patience, great insight, great restraint for us who see the whole world in our own image and likeness to win confidence and faith in the great uncommitted areas of Asia. It can't be done with the white man's sword." (Evanston, Ill., 1951.)

"We must thread our way between imperialism and isolationism, between the disavowal of the responsibilities of our power and the assertion of our power beyond our resources." (Chicago, 1951.)

timely until a resolution came up praising Sen. Blair Moody of Michigan for the job he did as chairman of the rules committee.

This was the committee that brought up the loyalty pledge that kicked up such a commotion in the convention.

When the acting chairman, Rep. Francis Walter of Pennsylvania, asked for the ayes and nays, a loud "No," rolled up from Dixie. "The ayes have it," Walter said.

SPARKMAN PRESENT
CONVENTION HALL, Chicago —(AP)—Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, tapped by Gov. Adlai Stevenson to be his running mate on the Democratic ticket, was offered to the party's convention today as an "ideal lieutenant" for the Illinois governor's presidential campaign.

Sparkman's Alabama colleague in the Senate, Lister Hill, was chosen to present his name to the convention.

Hill, in a prepared address, called Stevenson "a new prophet on the American scene" who speaks in the language of Woodrow Wilson.

Then, nominating Sparkman for vice-president, Hill said: "The man I present, with his seasoned experience, his ripened wisdom, his courage and fighting heart will be the ideal lieutenant to Governor Stevenson."

"Together they will carry the message of the Democratic party to the American people. They will proclaim American Democracy, for our cause is the cause of the people."

"They will turn the searching light of truth upon the smears and deceptions of Republican propaganda."

"They will tear away the mask of hypocrisy and pretension that the people may see the stark, naked reaction of the Republican party, the party of the few, by the few and for the few."

Farouk Driven Out Of Egypt

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The State Department received word today that King Farouk of Egypt had been given an ultimatum by the military insurgents to abdicate at once and leave the country in six hours.

The king's abdication and departure had been requested by the new army commander in chief, Gen. Mohammed Naguib.

Other reports said he was leaving Egypt in the royal yacht for Europe.

The broadcast said he had abdicated in favor of his son, Crown Prince Ahmed Foad.

The Egyptian state radio broadcast at Beirut in Lebanon that the king had abdicated in favor of his year-old son, Crown Prince Ahmed Foad.

Gen. Naguib had engineered a military coup earlier this week. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery, State Department informants disclosed, received and forwarded to Washington information that Farouk had been told to step down immediately from the throne in favor of his infant son and had been given six hours to leave the country.

threshold of the greatest age in history.

And he said, with an air of wistfulness, that he'd like to be a boy of 18 instead of a man of 68 "so I could see it develop to its conclusion."

"We believe in an unlimited America," Truman said. "Unlike our opponents, we do not limit our goals by the compass of our fears." "I was elected in 1948 because people wanted things done," Truman said. He said the Democrats' program is the kind of a program that gets things done.

Truman did not end his speech in the fighting mood he normally uses. It looked as if he was soft-peddling purposely, so that he wouldn't take the show away from Stevenson.

A Study In Contrast, Truman And Stevenson

find it, has not enlarged my own capacities."

He showed, in the middle part of his speech, that he has looked long and deeply into the philosophy of politics, and not just at the physical problems alone.

Was he a little over the heads of his listeners during these passages?

And how many professional politicians agreed when he said: "What does concern me, in common with thinking partisans of both parties, is not just winning the election, but how it is won, how well we can take advantage of this great opportunity to debate issues sensibly and soberly."

He gave a graphic picture of a situation in which, as a public servant, he probably has found himself many times before—

"When the tumult and the shouting die, when the bands are gone, and the lights are dimmed, there is the stark reality of responsibility."

That was a picture of a man, alone with himself, facing up to a job, wondering . . .

The man of action is stepping out of the presidency. He says he is satisfied with the work that has been done.

The philosopher, who may succeed him, approaches it with the words: "I have asked the merciful Father of us all to let this cup pass from me . . . But from such dread responsibility one does not shrink in fear."

Young Man's Fancy
VANCOUVER, Canada—(AP)—Many Vancouver young men are having their left ears pierced for earrings, says Mrs. Edna Mae Young, an ear specialist. She claimed men are crowding girls out of the shop.

Stevenson took time out to nod to acquaintances of his who were in the press section at his feet. As he had before his own speech, Truman tried to shush the crowd, and gestured with his thumb toward Stevenson to show he felt he should be given a chance to speak.

When quiet was restored, Truman made his little introduction speech.

Truman said of Stevenson: "He would not make any deals with anybody."

Truman added: "This is the first time in my recollection that we've nominated a man for president on a real, honest to goodness draft."
